

Media round-up: 24th January 2024

Our work in the news

- Women's Aid quoted in the Daily Mail - Stephen Bear breaks silence following his release from prison over Georgia Harrison revenge porn: Bizarre video shows disgraced reality star punching the air and winking to camera - Women's Aid, a charity that aims to end domestic violence against women and children, slammed his early release. It said: 'Following today's news of the release of Stephen Bear, only 11 months into his sentence, our thoughts are with Georgia Harrison and other survivors affected by image-based sexual abuse crimes like so-called "revenge porn". 'From our work with survivors, we know that violence against women not being taken seriously is one of the main reasons preventing many from reporting the crimes to police. 'Seeing perpetrators being released from sentences early, in this instance serving under a year, also has an impact on women coming forward in the future...'

Social Media Update

Twitter:

- Victims and Prisoners Bill thread (39 likes, 15 retweets, 1,943 impressions)